Sweet Success

On March 24, 2017, Bergen County Academies in Hackensack hosted its 19th Annual Chocolate Competition. Over thirty students demonstrated their impressive baking, pastry arts and artistic skills. They developed exquisite, edible pieces of art using chocolate as the medium.

Junior and senior students worked diligently during their class time and free periods devising imaginative themed masterpieces that were judged by industry professionals and visiting dignitaries.

The competition was conceived to encourage the students' creative visions, while applying the skills and techniques they learned in the Academy for Culinary Arts and Hospitality Administration.

The competition was under the supervision of culinary teachers Chef Mary Beth Brace and Chef John Branda. ###

Gerard and Diane Barros Entertain in Heights

Husband and wife duo, Gerard and Diane Barros, delighted all who attended the Carole King Tribute held by The Free Public Library of Hasbrouck Heights. The concert was held on March 18, 2017.

The title of the program was "One Fine Tapestry." It was a salute to the legendary singer/songwriter, covering several of her great solo hits from her most successful album "Tapestry." The album, released in 1971, is one of the best-selling albums of all time, with over 25 million copies sold worldwide.

The duo also performed classics that Carol wrote for other artists such as the Shirelles, Bobby Vee, the Everly Brothers, the Beatles, the Drifters, Aretha Franklin, the Monkees and James Taylor.

Gerard and Diane Barros are a unique husband and wife duo. There are no pre-recorded tracks or computerized music being used. Everything is played LIVE! Gerard plays right-handed lead keyboard,

The duo specializes in 2-part harmonies. Most of the time, Diane's singing is accompanied by Gerard's harmonies. Gerard also takes his turn singing while his wife does the harmonizing. The pair provided great entertainment and performed many of the audience's favorites.

This year, The Free Public Library of Hasbrouck Heights will be celebrating its 100th Anniversary. Because of this, The Friends of The Library are scheduling a series of musical events to be held throughout the year. This concert was the first. All who attended agreed that the performers gave their best... and more. Photo and story by Marie and Peter Gallo. ###

About Mother's Day

The modern holiday of Mother's Day was first celebrated in 1908, when Anna Jarvis held a memorial for her mother at St. Andrew's Methodist Church in Grafton, West Virginia. St. Andrew's Methodist Church now holds the International Mother's Day Shrine.

Her campaign to make "Mother's Day" a recognized holiday in the United States began in 1905, the year her mother, Ann Reeves Jarvis, died.

Ann Jarvis had been a peace activist who cared for wounded soldiers on both sides of the American Civil War, and created Mother's Day Work Clubs to address public health issues.

Anna Jarvis wanted to honor her mother by continuing the work she started and to set aside a day to honor all mothers, because she believed that they were "the person who has done more for you than anyone in the world."

In 1908, the US Congress rejected a proposal to make Mother's Day an official holiday, joking that they would have to proclaim also a "Mother-in-law's Day."

However, owing to the efforts of Anna Jarvis, by 1911 all US states observed the holiday, with some of them officially recognizing Mother's Day as a local holiday, the first being West Virginia, Jarvis' home state, in 1910.

In 1914, Woodrow Wilson signed a proclamation designating Mother's Day, held on the second Sunday in May, as a national holiday to honor mothers.

Although Jarvis was successful in founding Mother's Day, she became resentful of the commercialization of the holiday. By the early 1920s, Hallmark Cards and other companies had started selling Mother's Day cards. Jarvis believed that the companies had misinterpreted and exploited the idea of Mother's Day, and that the emphasis of the holiday was on sentiment, not profit.

As a result, she organized boycotts of Mother's Day, and threatened to issue lawsuits against the companies involved.

Jarvis argued that people should appreciate and honor their mothers through handwritten letters expressing their love and gratitude, instead of buying gifts and pre-made cards.

Jarvis protested at a candy makers' convention in Philadelphia in 1923, and at a meeting of American War Mothers in 1925.

By this time, carnations had become associated with Mother's Day, and the selling of carnations by the American War Mothers to raise money angered Jarvis, who was arrested for disturbing the peace.

Mother's Day is celebrated in more than 46 countries throughout the world. On this day, many people pray in Churches in honor of mothers, while some give them presents on this day to express their love. Some may have dinner at home with the family.

One of the most popular ways people celebrate Mother's Day is by giving their mother a card and bouquet of flowers.

As it is a holiday, some people prefer to go out for a picnic to celebrate this festival. In schools, kids dedicate poems to their mothers and also perform various roles on this day.

Artful Thinking

By Artie Maglionico • Lodi Historian

Back Track 17
I'm going to begin this month's column by remembering our men and women of the Military who, while defending our liberty, made the supreme sacrifice so that we can continue to enjoy our freedom in the greatest country in the history of the world...The United States of America.

Allow me to backtrack for a moment to my February column. The Beatle song that me and my high school sweetheart called our own was "Ask Me Why Not," and I repeat, not "Tell Me Why." If you listen to them you'll know what I'm talking about...say no more!
Now many of you have been inquiring as to when I'm going to write more about my days at Lodi High School.

Well folks it's not that I have been purposely avoiding the subject...well then again maybe I have. You see at first glance it would appear that my career as a student at LHS didn't amount to much. I have decided, thanks to your urging, to perhaps take a closer look.

Hey who knows there might be more there than meets the eye so get out the magnifying glass folks and let's have a peek.

Oh yea, by the way, what you are reading... or are about to read...is part one of a possible four part series. By part three you're going to regret having made the inquiry.

Well at least we'll be spending the summer together here in this "Artful Thinking Column," right Roseanne? Like us, huh? You know one thing about bringing back the past is that as a story teller, you never run out of stuff to say.

Think about it...Here I am in the present moment writing about the past so it can reach you in the near future.

In fact even as you are reading this the past is consuming every word until there is nothing left but the memory of what you just read.

Do you want to re-read it? Too Late Its gone...Welcome to the past! Please bear with me folks I'm trying to buy some time until the muse returns to remove this writer's block...I'll be right back.

Okay here we go. Thanks for waiting. I'm going to start things off by showing you a poem I wrote called "Columbus School." I know this is supposed to be about LHS and it is. I first, however, must say so long to that wonderful school on the Lodi Hill.

Columbus School
*Columbus School yes I'm still there
At a wooden desk yet sitting there
Gazing dreamily into space
With a boyish grin across my face.
The childhood echoes of my past
I hear them calling me at last Classmates who once passed my way
On this schoolyard where we'd come to play.
I pause here on this sacred ground
In a sunlit room where once I found
The keepers of the golden rule
And the love that is Columbus school.
Now the years have distanced me
From all the joy that used to be
The friends that I made from the start
Fill the classroom in my heart.
Fini*

Making the transition from the coziness of grammar school to the crowded and chaotic environs of high school was, for me, traumatic.

I was like a young bird being kicked out of the safety of the nest being forced to fly into parts unknown. I had spent the last 9 years with the same "flock" of kids and now we were being scattered all over the landscape some of us never to be seen again. Sad huh?

The summer of 1961, the summer before my freshman year, was business as usual at least on the surface level.

The kids from Westervelt Place were still frolicking about. Sal the barber was looking out the shop window waiting for his next customer while Lou Albano stood behind the counter of his corner store grinding chop meat with the big band sounds of Billy May and his orchestra playing "Lu Lu's Back in Town" on the record player.

But even at that something wasn't quite the same. Certain aspects of my life as I had come to know it were changing. Innocence was being replaced by experience. Reason and passion where being met head on the impact of which shattered the protective fortress from which I ruled my kingdom...childhood.

Do any of you avid readers of this column recall a story I wrote some time ago titled The Girl with Red Hair? Hers was the last face I saw before my fortress was reduced to a smoldering heap of ashes and jagged rocks.

Come to think of it that's probably why I seldom write about life beyond Westervelt Place and the summer of 61.

You might want to re-read that story for in doing so you'll find that it was written about all of us who grew up during that time period.

Let's face it, after 1961 the sunny skies that warmed and protected us, turned cold and dark in a hurry. But hey I'm here to talk about life in the "Big House"...Lodi High School...the orange and blue, the home of the Lodi Football

Rams.
As long as I live, I'll never forget that first day of school. It didn't really stagger me until I reached the corner of Arnot Street and Westervelt Place.

In previous years I'd turn left at that corner each morning toward Columbus school.

Now for the first time in the history of my life I was making a sharp right toward Lodi High School. It was the most difficult turn I ever made. It was like walking head on into a hurricane force wind. Each step was a struggle, each gust kept pushing me back to the place I knew best, still I went forward.

I passed the place where we played box ball and single double triple and began thinking about the good old days which was sad, since I was playing there only the day before. Still it seemed like a lifetime ago.

As I pressed on I felt myself deteriorating. I felt my confidence level begin to sink. It took me a good 8 years to feel half way decent about myself only to find myself having to start from square one again.

I felt fat, disheveled, my hair didn't look right and my socks were white! I had been wearing white socks for all those years and that was the first time I actually realized it.

Suddenly my black pants were too short and too shiny while my Tom McCann shoes looked up at me displaying the Velcro flap that took the place of shoe laces and oh those white socks.

The closer I got to LHS, the more self-conscious I became and what was even worse was that somewhere along the way, I had developed a skin condition on my face no less. I wasn't in the front door yet and I was already failing.

I did however have a few things going for me that, though they didn't make my downward spiral any less frightening, it did cushion the impact once I got there.

My cousin, Johnny Maglionico, was a top of the food chain senior, while his kid brother Anthony was adjusting to life as a sophomore. Meanwhile another cousin of mine, Phil Maglionico, a Wilson School grad, was a fellow freshman.

Being Johnny Mag's cousin gave me and Phil enough status to keep me from getting hazed by the upper classmen.

It gave us a boost on the social ladder, one that I foolishly never took advantage of. Having played little league football for the previous two years afforded me the chance to mingle with kids from the surrounding schools who, like me, were freshmen so I wasn't a complete stranger. It only felt that way.

Back then everyone in Lodi knew one another on some level. Our parents grew up together, lived through a depression together and fought together in WWII.

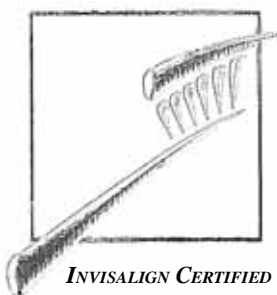

Our backgrounds were basically the same and it didn't matter what neighborhood you came from, or what grammar school you attended. We had so much in common that we knew one another without actually knowing one another, if that makes any sense.

We were from Lodi and we were all together now in that crowded hang out called Lodi High School. ###

American Wine Society Presents Spring Time Wine May 18

American Wine Society Meadowlands Chapter is proud to be hosting an evening of great Spring time wines for your enjoyment.

These world class wines will be presented by our own President and 2nd level wine Judge Angela Martinez wine Esq.

It is presenters and wine tastings like this that have helped make us the largest, and still growing, AWS chapter in the state of NJ. Seriously, you did know that right? But if you did not, we would love for you to find out all about us.

Do not let the Wine Train pass you by. Didn’t you know that we have a Holiday party at the Fiesta in December that is amazing, well we do! Mark the date down now, Saturday December 2, 2017. Last year’s event featured a photo booth, a mashed potatoes bar, a DJ, gift baskets and door prizes and a special guest “Rat Pack Style” singer. Go to the wineclub201@gmail.com and check it out.

Come to our next meeting and find out more about these phenomenal and other fun events that the AWS Meadowlands Chapter hosts throughout the year. Meet fun people and taste some great wines, too.

As always, there will be tasty snacks both savory and sweet to please your palate to compliment these fine wines being presented. Food and wine wow such a deal!

We encourage you to come to our May 18 meeting starting at 6:30 p.m. at the award winning wine school, Make Wine With Us, located at 21 Currie Street, Wallington, NJ.

Cost for this meeting is $15 for members and $20 for non-members, reasonable price for the many different wines we will be enjoying and don’t forget the snacks too! Have some wine and learn some fun facts.

You can follow us at <http://wineclub201.blogspot.com> for more details about the group, and we will soon be on Facebook.

To ensure that we have enough seating please RSVP to the wineclub201@gmail.com. Please check Angel’s blog; he gets a little sensitive if nobody does. Thank you and we look forward to seeing you there. Chapter President Angel Martinez and all around good wine guy Vice President Philip Miuccio. Cheers & Salute! ###

Dining with History

The Free Public Library of Hasbrouck Heights is sponsoring “Monday afternoon at The Library” series of seminars in The Library’s conference room from 3 p.m. until 4 p.m., the third Monday of every month. The guest speaker on Monday, May 15, 2017 is Phil Jaeger. He will present a lecture entitled “Dining with History.”

The program focuses on many restaurants, all in Northern New Jersey, that began life as long ago as the 1700s.

In every case the building itself is an important part of New Jersey’s heritage whether it originally was a stagecoach stop, railroad station, school, castle, private residence or other historic structure.

The program includes not only the origins of many of these dining establishments but also views of the restaurant as it appears today.

Additionally, nearby attractions of interest are also highlighted. To register, please call 201-288-0488 or log on to <http://hasbrouckheights.bccls.org> and go to calendar.

Phil Jaeger is currently a trustee of the Passaic County and Cedar Grove Historical Societies, and is a former member of the board of directors of the Canal Society of New Jersey. In addition to making presentations at historical societies, libraries, civic groups, and other organizations, he is frequently consulted on historical matters in northern New Jersey and for his large archive of postcards, maps, and New Jerseyana.

Rutherford Library Foundation Board 5th Annual Gala May 13

The Rutherford Library Foundation Board is pleased to announce that its 5th Annual Gala will be held at Il Villaggio on Saturday, May 13, 2017 at 6:30 p.m. Mike and Tracy Paskas will be the recipients of the 2017 Foundation Award.

Recipients of the Foundation Award are identified by their commitment to both The Rutherford Public Library and the Rutherford community in general.

Since founding Rutherford Junior Football and Cheering in 1999, the Paskases have used their organization to benefit not just the children of Rutherford but also over two dozen community groups within Rutherford.

Together they donate their time, money, and resources on a regular basis to organizations including The Rutherford Public Library, Rutherford Public Schools, The Andrew Ortega Foundation, PBA and Michael Cassidy Runs, and many more.

In the past 18 years, the RJF has raised over one million dollars and supported these organizations both financially and by sharing their many resources.

Their enthusiasm for volunteering and a commitment to helping fellow Rutherfordians through financial and practical donations embody the spirit of The Rutherford Public Library Foundation Award.

2003 - Present

100 years ago the leaders of Hasbrouck Heights had the vision to create the town’s first library. During that century we have seen a myriad of change and progress as the direct result of community support and interaction.

Now it is time for a new beginning! We invite all our residents, former residents and organizations to become a part of this wonderful, exciting journey into the next 100 years.

What wonders will await our community? Our children? Our citizenry, young and old alike?

Yes, we will be raising money to enhance our already prominent and outstanding Library, but there will be so much more.

We invite you to this wonderful, historic event on May 6th. Bring a friend, a neighbor, and your family members. Everyone is welcome! Light refreshments will be served.

R.S.V.P. by filling out and returning the form below no later than May 3rd or visit the library’s events calendar at <http://hasbrouckheights.bccls.org>

Pinwheels for Prevention

At 11 a.m. on Saturday, April 1, 2017, Hasbrouck Heights GFWC-Contemporary Club planted a pinwheel garden in front of the HH Municipal Building on the Boulevard to help show support for National Child Abuse Prevention Month. This year the Club is also planning to plant a second garden at the park on Terrace Avenue between Harrison Avenue and Cleveland Avenue.

Members wore purple in honor of National Child Abuse Prevention month. While they planted pinwheels, the General Federation of Women's Clubs planted 1,200 pinwheels on the National Mall in Washington, DC. Other places planting pinwheel gardens include Newark, New Brunswick, Chicago and New York City. These gardens will be planted in the next few weeks. The pinwheels were adopted in 2008 as the official symbol of Child Abuse Prevention. The GFWC joined the Prevent Child Abuse America project in October 2015. Pinwheels have become the national symbol for child abuse prevention. It is a reflection of hope, health and safety. According to Prevent Child Abuse America, pinwheels are to remind people of child-like notions and "stand for the chance at healthy, happy and full lives all children deserve." Pinwheels for Prevention began as a grassroots campaign in just a few states, and grew into a nationwide effort in 2008. The organization is now using the pinwheel symbol to "transform awareness into action" to "prevent the abuse and neglect of our nation's children," according to www.pinwheelsforprevention.org.

Part of the Pinwheels for Prevention effort also is to help kids build up their self-esteem, so they can learn to speak up for themselves when something isn't right. It's important for the children to know that there are adults out there that are concerned and that care about what happens to them.

April is National Child Abuse Prevention Month. NJSFWC – which stands for New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs – is the largest volunteer Women's Organization in the state and it is part of the General Federation of Women's Clubs located in Washington, DC, provides opportunities for education, leadership training and community service through participation in local clubs, enabling members to make a difference in the lives of others, one project at a time. ###

Happy Birthday John Havilicek

On April 1, 2017, Wood-Ridge resident, John Havilicek, celebrated his One Hundredth Birthday. On that day, as a Church lector, he also established a record of completing 3,213 scripture readings at Masses.

John is a World War II Veteran who is dedicated to his family, which includes his daughter Anne, son-law Artie, 2 grandsons, Michael and David, and 2 great-granddaughters, Maren and Nola. He loves classical music, doing crossword puzzles, reading, watching movies, attending plays, musicals, the opera and the ballet.

For many years, John volunteered teaching chess at the Assumption School and just recently he stopped bowling and golfing. He still drives.

On his Birthday, Fr. Richard Mucowski, Pastor of the Church of the Assumption of Our Blessed Lady in Wood-Ridge, acknowledged his dedication to his Church and his many accomplishments by presenting him with a sash with his (John's) name on it.

The sash was draped from one shoulder to the opposite hip. The sash with the Church's 90th Anniversary logo on it is one of several that will be presented to those parishioners who have excelled in their service to their Church. Photo and story provided by Marie and Peter Gallo Jr. ###

Seniors Receive Valuable Information

Representatives from RIM Energy or Commercial Utility Consultants discussed the Government Energy Aggregation program at the April 12, 2017 meeting of the Leisure Club. Councilman Russell Lipari introduced the three representatives. The goal of the program, which is being considered by our municipality, is to give our residents the opportunity to pool together to lower their energy supply price.

If approved, our residents will obtain specific information through public meetings, advertising and at least two mailings. Residents will have the opportunity to remain where they are or join the new program.

Also attending the meeting was Public Health Nurse Supervisor, Joanne Wendolowski, who discussed a "Balancing For Seniors Program" which will be held in The HH Library Conference Room. The first class is scheduled for Thursday, April 27, 2017, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. The class will be held at that time every Thursday until June 15.

Councilman Lipari distributed "No Solicitation" signs that seniors could place at the entrance to their home. This is to discourage annoying unwanted visitors from vying for donations, time and business.

The signs were compliments of the Mayor and Council.

Paul Belanich provided the entertainment for the afternoon. He sang, played the keyboard and accordion. The members enjoyed his program. Many even danced as he sang and played.

President Peter Gallo announced that the members would be treated to an Ice Cream Party at the May 10 meeting compliments of the local Republican Club. They will also have a Pizza Party at the June 14 meeting. Both parties are free to all paid members. Photo and story by Marie and Peter Gallo Jr. ###

Youth Group Presents Living Stations

Thirty-three members of the Assumption /Corpus Christi Youth Group observed Good Friday, April 14, 2017, with a live portrayal of the Stations of the Cross. The high school students from Wood-Ridge and Hasbrouck Heights presented their annual performance at the Assumption Church. They alternate each year between the Wood-Ridge Church and Corpus Christi Church in Hasbrouck Heights.

Parishioners from both parishes filled the Assumption Church to capacity. They were mesmerized with the students' outstanding portrayals of Jesus' journey to Calvary leading to his crucifixion.

The reenactment of Jesus' last hours included his sentencing, his falling under the weight of the cross, meeting his mother, being helped by a stranger, having his tunic stripped off his body, and being nailed to the cross he carried. The dramatization also included music and narration.

The narrator and prayer leader, Christina Generio and Alex Berg, respectively, led all in the journey through the 14 stations and prayers. Some members of the cast were Jesus - Christopher Mascis, Pontius Pilate - John Mullins, Barabas - Marc Cruz, Mother Mary - Olivia Scalero, Veronica - Kirsten Mattern, Apostle John - Brian Rice, and the Centurions/Guards - James Grell, Peter Lohrmann, Peter Neumann and James Gilhooley. Other teenagers appeared as the men and women of Jerusalem.

Musical Director, Deacon

Anthony Liguori, did all of the singing except for one song sung by Zoe Papianni. The music added to the production.

Special credit for a job well done goes to Director Eileen Barroso and Assistant Director Donna Materia. Story by Peter Gallo Jr. ###

Euclid STEAMing Ahead

The Euclid Kindergarten Students had the chance to attend the STEAM Lab in Maywood. It is offered to Bergen County Schools. They learned about motion, and solids, liquids, gases and they learned how computers can be used to move toys and help expand their minds into building things that change the motion of objects. They explored machines. They enjoyed some computers that dance and move as well as created their own moving machines that would follow their hand. It was another exciting learning experience for the students, who love STEAM lab. Provided by Pat McSweeney. ###

Rutherford Recognizes Recreation Good Sportsmanship

On Tuesday, March 28, 2017, the Rutherford Mayor and Council recognized the Recreation Good Sportsmanship Recipients.

Good Sportsmanship is the most important aspect of the game.

Sportsmanship leads to the same goal of having clean, fun competition with the outcome of creating champions who excel both on and off the field/court/mat.

The children listed below were selected by coaches who saw the following criteria that your child reflects:

- 1.) PLAY WITH A SMILE: Don't worry; you don't have to grin throughout the whole game. Playing with a smile means playing with passion, confidence and self-respect; being gracious in victory and defeat and most of all having fun! Play for the love of the game, not just the trophy.
- 2.) BE A WINNER: Winners lead by example - always playing their best, being humble and acting in good character. Bring your game to the next level by practicing hard, learning from your mistakes and listening.
- 3.) SHOW RESPECT: Playing fair following the rules is a big part of sportsmanship. Always consider your safety and the safety of others. Also, treat your coaches, officials, parents, fans, teammates and opponents with respect both on and off the field.

4.) BE A GOOD TEAMMATE: Leading by example, exemplifying the qualities of being part of a team. Being part of a team means showing up to practices and games on time, cooperating with players and coaches and being trustworthy and a loyal teammate.

5.) FIND GOOD IN THE GAME: Play with a commitment to the game - don't quit when things aren't going your way. Be gracious by cheering on good plays by your teammates and opponents and congratulating effort as well as success. Never forget to have fun!

Congratulations to: Patty Ann Forsythe - Tim Finnerty Good Sportsmanship (basketball) Jack Rudolph - Tim Finnerty Good Sportsmanship (basketball) Paige Holman - Elaine Borzotta Memorial Sportsmanship Award (soccer) Weston Greenwood - Anthony Azzolini Good Sportsmanship Award (wrestling). The Lady Cougars Are Perfect!

The Corpus Christi Girls’ Third and Fourth Grade C.Y.O. Basketball Team won the Parochial Group 4 Championship completing an unbelievable undefeated season!

The Lady Cougars beat St. Anthony’s of Hawthorne in the championship game by 10 points putting an exclamation point on an incredible season in which these ladies of the hardcourt only trailed an opponent for 30 seconds the entire season.

They finished a perfect 17-0 flashing incredible skills on both the offensive and defensive side of the ball, playing with the heart and grit of a champion all season long.

The Lady Cougars set lofty goals for themselves at the beginning of the season and through all of the hard work, sweat and determination they achieved every goal they laid out. This team outscored their opponents by an average of 12+ points a game during the season, but found themselves in a tough battle during the championship game as they were only up 1 point at halftime.

The Corpus Christi team came out for the second half more emboldened than ever to finish what they had started and went on a 12-3 run in the second half to ice the game and take home the championship trophy.

In this game, as was with the whole season, the 12 girls that made up this special team worked together to bring home the title and make one last perfect memory. Provided by Mike Davis. ###

Despite threatening weather, The Wood-Ridge/Moonachie Little League started their 66th Opening Day with a parade from the CVS Pharmacy on Valley Boulevard, to the 6th Street Field on Saturday, April 8, 2017.

Little Leaguers lined the infield and the program began with the National Anthem.

Little League President for the past 24 years, Phil Romero, officiated and thanked the sponsors, managers/coaches, and others who help make the League a success. He stated that all coaches are certified in CPR. He also thanked the Borough of Wood-Ridge for the major renovations and clean-up.

George Laurite, Equipment Manager and Tom Schmidt, Safety Officer, were recognized for their years of dedicated service.

Moonachie Mayor Dennis Vaccaro and Wood-Ridge Mayor Paul Sarlo threw out the first pitches -- starting the official season.

The League was started in 1951. ###

Wood-Ridge Sports Mystery Solved

While Peter Incardone, was both relaxing and exercising his new hip in Florida this past February, he received an e-mail from his old high school buddy, Tom Findura, Herkimer, NY, along with an old picture of four people. He got it from Diane Slavinsky DiMiceli, formerly of Moonachie, who was another 1957 classmate of theirs. She was seeking help in identifying three of the four people as one she already knew to be the dad of her late husband, Ed DiMiceli, and he was her late father-in-law, A.E. DiMiceli, well-known Principal of WRHS, but she had no idea who the other three were.

What began was a two month journey into local history for Tom and Peter with twists, turns, dead ends and some frustration. Brains were picked, memories were jogged, and calls were made around the state Tom's Internet was on constantly and the WR Library staff saw Peter almost on a daily basis browsing through old WRHS yearbooks.

To begin, both men picked an era they suspected the photo to be taken - '47 to '49-'50. Both were pretty confident that the other coach was high school teacher, Nick Franicola, who was actually team coach, but it was here they erred on a key matter! Just find the two players' names now. With Tom on the Internet and Peter both on the phone calling 'old-timers' while pouring through old high school yearbooks, they hit nothing but guesses or wrong names. Worse, many sources were now deceased.

On a hunch, Peter called his former neighbor, Fred Backhus, who still owns business property in Carlstadt, and now lives in Pt. Pleasant. Fred, too, couldn't name the two players but then offered advice that began the path to success. He told him to call Dottie Suehnholz Dobek, life-long resident and a '52 WRHS graduate, which he did.

It seemed like only a matter of hours before Dottie called back to both to say that their era guess was way off and they better go back to the beginning of the '40s era. How did she know, they said? Look at the old photo she told them and compare a 1950s uniform with the uniforms the two players in the photo were wearing, she offered. Apples and oranges! Dottie and her older brother, Ray, then had Peter make a call to Frank Jacullo, 89 years of age, who played football at WR in 1944-45.

Bingo! Frank had that same old photo for years ! He identified himself as number 20 and the tall kid next to him was the team quarterback, Al Beck, and then he corrected the error that both Tom and Peter made.

The other coach was not Nick Franicola, as he was away for two years serving his country in World War II. It was a man named Charlie Gaier, with similar features to Franicola, but was coaching the team that year.

The moral of the story as Tom and Peter tell everyone: In the rough and tumble sport of football, never under estimate the cleverness and ingenuity of a woman to quickly note the differences in uniforms! While men were staring at faces, she was studying uniforms, which in turn, cracked "The Code!" Provided by Peter Incardone. ###

Veterans Today

By Thomas Marshall

Rules, laws, traditions, regulations, rules of the school yard, protocol, etiquette and by-laws are some of the things used to keep us civil, tame and fair.

Since the earliest days of our childhood we had rules. If they didn't come from a parent or teacher we usually made our own, even seemed as though some rules were followed even when not spoken, like forming lines to wait for things.

Then there is the "I got shotgun" or "I got dibs," the age old declarations that put us in front of everyone else. When you used them everyone knew they couldn't be broken.

Rules are made with the thought of keeping things even. Set the game and life right. No need to argue or fight. The rules will make it all fair. No one would have the advantage when the game begins. It would be everything and everyone on the up and up. All will be on an equal playing field. All would be fair in the world. The only problem is, in the end, no one follows the rules.

It was in 1780, during the Revolutionary War, Colonel Abraham Buford was on his way to Charleston, South Carolina. With him were his Virginia Continental Soldiers, about 380 men in all.

Charleston was under siege by the British military forces and Buford was sent with his men to bring supplies and fresh troops to help defend the city.

General Benjamin Lincoln ordered Buford to station his troops at Lenud's Ferry on the Santee River, just outside of Charleston, and wait for further orders.

On May 12, 1780, Charleston surrendered. Buford came to the Ferry and was told that Charleston had surrendered by 40 Virginia Light Dragoons who had left Charleston. Some North Carolina Militia also joined up with Buford's men. Buford realized that there was nothing that could be done. They had arrived too late. So they turned around and headed to Hillsboro, North Carolina.

The British General in command, Sir Henry Clinton, told General Charles Cornwallis to make sure the interior of the Colony of South Carolina was also under control. This was after Clinton received reports of rebel forces moving in the back country.

Cornwallis set out with his army but to catch up to Buford's men his large army proved to be too slow.

He ordered Lt. Colonel Banastre Tarleton to pursue Buford and defeat or capture his force. Tarleton had around 270 mounted troops for the mission, they also brought with them a 3 pound cannon. They set out after Buford and the chase was on.

Buford and his men made it to Camden, South Carolina. Buford didn't perceive any danger at the moment so he sent the North Carolina troops ahead and he was left behind with the wagons and Virginians.

Tarleton and his mounted troops rushed after Buford and his men. He sent a rider out ahead with a dispatch to Buford asking for his surrender.

The note claimed Tarleton had over 700 men with him. The lie about the amount of men is common in war. Everyone elevated their numbers.

Here is where the "rules" are broken or bent. Tarleton could not have possibly expected Buford to surrender. He just wanted to slow Buford down. Tarleton needed time to catch up.

It was part of the Rules of War that when a communication went from one side to the other all military movements stopped.

What does that mean? It means that you cannot dig in. You cannot fire on the enemy. They cannot fire on you. Repairs are stopped on fortifications. There are no troop movements made. All military operations come to a halt.

Tarleton asked for Buford's surrender. By Rule his advance should have stopped till he heard from Buford. Tarleton kept his men moving closer anyway.

On May 29, 1780, Buford had stopped his march to rest his men at a place called the Waxhaws. After rejecting the surrender Buford set his men back on the road to continue his march but before they were far along, trouble sounded from the rear of the column.

At around 3 p.m. Tarleton's force caught up to the rear guard of Buford's column.

Captain Pearson who was in charge of the rear guard and a few others were captured.

Dr. Brownfield was a witness to what happened to Pearson. He said "Pearson was inhumanely mangled on the face as he lay on his back. His nose and lip were bisected.... several of his teeth were broken out in the upper jaw and the under, completely divided on each side. These wounds were inflicted after he had fallen, with several others on his head, shoulders and arms."

During the Revolution it was expected that when a person asked for quarter and surrendered he was not to be harmed. Once a soldier surrendered he was out of the war. That didn't happen here. Tarleton and his men weren't done yet.

The wagons were sent ahead to keep them from being captured. Colonel Buford put his men into an open wooded terrain. A single battle line was formed.

This was a bad spot. Open wood would allow Tarleton to use his horsemen more easily. Also, Buford did not post his men in a good defensive position. He was unaware how close Tarleton and his men were and did not realize they were under attack until he heard the British bugler sound the charge.

Tarleton formed an attack line. Infantry in the center and on both flanks of his troops he posted his dragoons. The British began the attack on the main American line. The three pound cannon wasn't used because the horses moving them were played out from the long chase and could not come up in time for the battle.

Buford ordered his men to shoot when they got within ten yards of their line. This is a bad idea because they would get one chance to hit their targets. One shot to beat the enemy. By accounts of the battle this line of Buford's checked the enemy infantry but the horsemen quickly circled around Buford's line.

Now among the Virginians, they hacked and slashed through them. The British infantry also added their bayonets to the fight. Buford realizing that further resistance was futile he sent Ensign Cruit forward with a white flag to show that he surrendered.

The Virginians began the process of grounding their arms. Basically tossing them down to show that they no longer resisted and they too surrendered.

The white flag meant that the Americans surrendered. It's a traditional symbol in war. It meant that the fighting and killing should stop because one side has given up.

At the time, the British didn't care for rules. Ensign Cruit was immediately cut down. Upon seeing the flag not honored, some of the Americans tried in vain to get back to their arms so that they could sell their lives at the highest price. It was of no use.

All the witnesses later stated that for 15 minutes afterwards wounded men were bayoneted on the ground. Dead men that fell across the wounded on the ground were shoved off by the bayonet so that the man underneath could be stabbed. Anyone that moved on the ground was bayoneted.

One hundred and thirteen men were dead in the field. Another one hundred and fifty were maimed to the point that Tarleton paroled them where they lay. Only fifty three were taken as prisoners. The battle of the Waxhaws, or as most call it, Buford's massacre, was over.

Tarleton said afterward that his horse was shot out from under him and it caused the men to lose control of good order and discipline.

That could be a nice cover up for Bannastre Tarleton, but the fact remains though, he either allowed it or he had no control of his men. Both are unacceptable.

A couple days later while Cornwallis' Army approached, two teenagers were captured. Tarleton said they fired on the king's troops. One was hanged and the other was taken into the British Army for punishment.

It is another example of Tarleton's way of subjugating the south. The Battle of Waxhaws showed the Americans what to expect from Tarleton. "Tarleton's Quarter" became a saying in the south that there would be no mercy.

Tarleton's men killed men on the ground and didn't give quarter. They didn't think about what happens later on when the fortunes of war shift in the other direction.

What will happen to British troops trying to surrender? Both sides traditionally honor the white flag because when your men are taken prisoner you don't want them barbarically mutilated and massacred.

Bannastre Tarleton's men opened a can of worms by not following the rules of the white flag. Sir Henry Clinton also ignored a traditional rule. Before he left for New York City, he voided the paroles of prisoners and declared them outlaws if they did not join the British standard in putting down the rebellion. Why should a Lt. Colonel follow any rules when the Commanding General didn't?

Buford's massacre would have a lasting effect on the minds of Americans in the south. The one hundred and fifty-three maimed men that could not be moved by Tarleton's men where taken to the Church of the Waxhaws.

There the women came out to help these horribly wounded men. Many of them died there in the days to come.

Legend also tells of a young Andrew Jackson, a boy that worshiped at the Church, also attended to the wounded men. He would remember Tarleton's Quarter. He would pay the British back, in another age, another time and another war. ###

Take the Train to the Shore

How often does anyone drive to the shore? How many times has anyone been stuck in traffic on the New Jersey Turnpike and the Garden State Parkway?

These days, it's time to resort to an alternative form of transportation. The train is the best alternative. As NJ Transit says, it's "the way to go."

We live near three major passenger train lines. There are the Pascack Valley Line, Bergen County Line, and the Main Line. The new Wesmont Station is on the Bergen County Line.

All three lines drop you off at one of two major terminals, Secaucus Junction and Hoboken Terminal. Secaucus and Hoboken are just minutes from each other. The fares are reasonable. The average round-trip cost to the New Jersey shore is $30.

Anyone who wishes to travel to the shore by train, the vending machines provide the choice of connection via Secaucus or Hoboken.

The North Jersey Coast Line local trains operate out of New York City's Penn Station every hour. Long Branch is an hour and thirty minute ride.

Connecting through Hoboken is the very best option. As opposed to the local service out of New York-Penn, NJ Transit operates express service to Long Branch and Bay Head. The expresses skip many of the local stops.

The ride on the express

is thirty to forty-five minutes shorter than the local service.

When getting off in Belmar, Spring Lake, Manasquan, Point Pleasant Beach, or Bay Head, the beach is within easy walking distance. Beach goers will be soaking up sun in no time. Sandy Hook travelers can get off at Middletown. Got an Uber app?

Hundreds of beach goers take the train. They're all decked out in their beach outfits, carrying their beach bags, and boogie boards. Honestly, no one feels left out.

Here is another big hint. Shore travelers enjoy biking down the shore on the boardwalks. To accommodate that, NJ Transit allows bicycles on board its trains. Many of the cars have areas on board where bikes can be secured. There is no charge for taking a bike on board. Bikes ride FREE!

This coming summer season is going to be a memorable one. This winter featured some wild weather. With summer coming, better weather is coming.

When it comes to traveling to the New Jersey Shore, the train is the best fit. With the level of traffic on the highways and the penny-squeezing gas prices, NJ Transit is at the shore goers' service.

During the summer, there is a lot to look forward to. There are perfect tans to maintain, refreshing dips in the ocean to enjoy, volleyball games to play, ice cream trucks to chase after, and TRAINS TO CATCH.

Looking Forward to Hanging Out

I've always been a big fan of backyard parties. I grew up on Central Avenue in Hasbrouck Heights where the properties run 50'75' by 144' and our yard, like those of many of our neighbors, had a pool, patio w/awning, picnic table, barbecue, etc.

In winter, my family along with those of my nearby aunts and uncles, my cousins and friends, would all get together in some relative's basement – always equipped with some kind of built-in bar - to party, eat, drink and make merry.

But, it was the summer social gatherings that were really special. Plenty of room outdoors to run around, to swim, grill up burgers and dogs, and enjoy the warm weather and cold refreshments.

Things haven't changed much along those lines since I was a kid. But there are now a few new contemporary twists on the adult outdoor social scene.

In fact, one of them is fast becoming a runaway new popular trend: the Backyard Personal Pub or "pub shed."

Sure, hanging out and drinking in a shed sounds like it might either be sad, scary or strange but – as portrayed in photos, at any rate - it actually looks to be pretty cool.

Homeowners all over the country and elsewhere are taking their old, decrepit sheds and transforming them into awesome bar areas that can be perfect for hosting backyard get-togethers.

After all, you've got a socially alluring watering hole area - outdoors yet sheltered - that's disconnected from your regular living space.

From what I've read, the trend started in the UK with the concept of "Community Gardens," where everyone is given an allotment to grow fresh fruit and vegetables.

Often times, these allotments had sheds for storing gardening tools and the like. Naturally, folks started enjoying a quick beer or cocktail in them and eventually, as a few people gathered, mini happy hours casually formed. From there, the natural evolution of the bar shed began.

This evolution, it seems, really took off in Great Britain after 2007 when the ban on indoor smoking came into full force.

To appreciate the scope of this craze you have to check out one website based out of the UK called ReaderSheds. It serves as a hub for "sheddies" to share thoughts and pictures of their pimped-out structures.

The section on 'pubs' is home to approximately 350 pub sheds, displayed in digital photo albums. Some of these creations are insanely amazing!

In contrast (if you're anything like me), you see your own shed as probably a little insignificant hut in your backyard – maybe an eyesore filled with the mower, rusting tools and other junk.

Sheds have never, it is true, provided much eye candy to a yard but these pub sheds, on the contrary, are different. They have a definite appeal that might add real value to your property. (Disclaimer: never had relevant experience.) At the very least, they offer the opportunity and convenience of being able to retreat to your special place "out back," for a night out.

Indeed, some people who convert their sheds into pubs have figured out how to make them functional year-round. A simple space heater allows them to enjoy their creations even in winter. And really, if you don't need the storage, you might as well put the space to good use. Ask my husband; he'll tell you he'd much rather keep a flat screen television in our shed than those all dumb garden tools. (Indicating clearly his priorities: leisure over chores. Always.)

In truth, thinking about it generally, it's odd how people are beginning to re-purpose old established elements of the home for new uses. Over time, they've begun to park their cars outside because their garages have gradually become "man caves" and now, with this new trend, they won't have any place to put their lawn mowers, shovels and what-not because their sheds have become elaborate bars and chill sites. Suburban life in the 21st century!

Full Flower Moon

The May Full Moon will appear on Wednesday, May 10, 2017, at 5:42 p.m. It is called the "Full Flower Moon."

According to The Farmer's Almanac, in most areas, flowers are abundant everywhere during this time. Thus, the name of this moon.

Other names include the "Full Corn Planting Moon" or the "Milk Moon."

The Native American Indians of the northern and eastern United States kept track of the seasons by giving a name to each recurring full moon. European settlers followed the custom. ###

From The Porch

From now through the end of June, our From the Porch ministry will be collecting for "The Pajama Program."

Through this program, new pajamas and new books are provided to children in need, many waiting and hoping for adoption.

The children live in group homes and shelters here in Bergen County. Many have been abused or abandoned and don't know the simple comfort of being tucked in or the joy of hearing a story.

Children who have received pajamas in the past have asked what they are for, having only slept in their clothes.

We can accept sizes 4-14 for boys or girls but there is a great need for the larger sizes, 7-14. Items must be new and the book you choose should be for the approximate age and gender of the child that the pajamas will fit.

Many support this project during the holidays but we have chosen to collect now to help insure they can meet demands during the spring and summer months.

Items may be left in the box on the Porch of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Hasbrouck Heights. For more information call 201-288-6889. Judy Danilchick. ###

The History of Dental Advances

Many of the most common dental tools were used as early as the Stone Age. Thankfully, technology and continuing education have made going to the dentist a much more pleasant – and painless – experience. Here is a look at the history of dentistry’s most common tools, and how they came to be vital components of our oral health care needs.

Where did toothbrushes and toothpaste come from?

The first toothbrushes were small sticks or twigs mashed at one end to create a broader cleaning surface. The Chinese lay claim to the first bristle toothbrush. Europe adopted the bristle brush in the 17th century, and many dentists practicing in colonial America advised their patients to use the brush.

The first electric toothbrush was marketed in 1880, though the Swiss developed the first effective electric toothbrush just after World War II. It was introduced in the United States around 1960.

A year later, the first cordless model was developed and proved to be popular with both consumers and dentists.

- Toothpaste also saw its earliest form in ancient civilizations. Early toothpaste ingredients included powdered fruit, burnt or ground shells, talc, honey and dried flowers.

Less agreeable ingredients included mice, rabbit heads, lizard livers and urine.

Despite the decidedly non-minty flavor of early toothpaste, various recipes continued to appear throughout ancient history and well into the Middle Ages.

Unfortunately, many of these toothpastes contained corrosive elements that dissolved tooth enamel.

Toothpaste as we know it emerged in the 1800s, with ingredients that included soap and chalk.

In 1892, the first collapsible tube was marketed and reigned supreme until 1984, when the pump dispenser was introduced. In 1956, Proctor & Gamble introduced Crest brand toothpaste with fluoride.

When was drinking water fluoridated?

In 1945, Grand Rapids, Michigan introduced fluoride into their public water systems to help fight tooth decay among residents.

At the same time, a group of Wisconsin-based dentists succeeded in getting the state’s water system fluoridated.

After substantial testing showed that fluoride reduced the incidence of cavities by as much as two-thirds, in 1951 the U.S. Public Health Service urged the entire country to fluoridate public drinking water.

The idea for water fluoridation resulted from an observation made by a dentist from Colorado Springs, Colorado, in the early 1900s.

Frederick McKay noticed that locals had brown stains on their teeth. He called the staining “enamel mottling” and attributed it to drinking water with high fluoride content. He reported that the locals had a reduced incidence of tooth decay.

In 1940, another dentist revealed that one part fluoride per one million parts water was the ideal ratio for reducing decay while preventing staining.

Soon after, fluoride gained acceptance, and today more than 60 percent of Americans have fluoridated water.

What’s the history behind false teeth?

Thanks to modern technology, today’s false teeth are largely indistinguishable from real teeth. This wasn’t always the case.

Perhaps the most famous false-toothed American was the first president, George Washington. Popular history gave Washington wooden teeth, though this was not the case.

In fact, wooden teeth are impossible; the corrosive effects of saliva would have turned them into mushy pulp before long.

As a matter of fact, the first president’s false teeth came from a variety of sources, including teeth extracted from human and animal corpses.

Despite this seemingly gruesome practice, dental practitioners preceding Washington’s time attempted aesthetic restorations.

Ancient civilizations used ivory and bone to create new teeth. Unfortunately, this craft was lost until the mid-1800s. Rotten or damaged teeth were simply extracted, and gaps became a way of life.

When false teeth were warranted, threads of silk or tightly coiled springs were used to hold the new teeth in place; it wasn’t much of an anchor, and teeth had to be removed before eating, lest they literally spring from the wearer’s mouth.

Additionally, genuine teeth extracted from the living and the dead and set in another’s mouth soon rotted. Those who could afford it opted to have new teeth fashioned from ivory, gold or silver.

It wasn’t until 1774 that two Frenchmen, a pharmacist and a dentist, designed a set of porcelain teeth.

Steady improvements were made on the teeth, most notably in 1808 when an Italian dentist invented a single porcelain tooth imbedded with a platinum pin.

These teeth came to America in 1822, and for the rest of the century dentists and technicians tinkered with the design, fit and feel of the teeth.

A breakthrough occurred in 1839 with the discovery of vulcanized rubber, which was used to hold false teeth. Today’s dentures are made of either plastic or ceramic.

How long have we had anesthesia?

Though dentistry has been around in one form or another since the days of primitive humans, painless extraction wasn’t available until the 1830s.

In the beginning, teeth were removed with a well-placed chisel and a hard swing of a mallet. Thousands of years later, during peaks of the great Greek and Roman civilizations, the chisel-and-mallet method was abandoned in favor of forceps.

In the 1790s, a British chemist began to experiment with the use of nitrous oxide as a pain-inhibitor and noted its most famous side effect, laughing. He coined the anesthetic’s popular nickname, “laughing gas.” During the next 50 years, the gas became very popular. In 1863 the gas was combined with oxygen, becoming a staple of surgical procedures.

Soon after the adoption of nitrous oxide, local anesthetics were developed. Just prior to the 1900s, cocaine was used, but once its addictive qualities were identified, the search began for a suitable alternative.

Many of the alternatives were forms of synthetic cocaine, but none were successful until 1905 when a German chemist discovered procaine, which he named Novocain.

The anesthetic proved extremely popular with dental professionals, as well as a public relieved at the sound of “painless dentistry.”

Wood-Ridge HS Students’ Musical Well Received

Students of Wood-Ridge High School dazzled their audience with their performance of the Disney smash-hit movie “High School Musical.” The production was held on March 31, April 1 and April 2, 2017.

The plot of the musical is very similar that of “Grease” and “West Side Story,” in that couples fall in love despite being different in just about every way possible. In this plot Troy Boltan, basketball team captain and Gabriella Montez, the key member of the academic club, meet; fall in love and try out for the school musical.

This upsets both the members of the basketball team and the academic team. Their reason being that the basketball team is scheduled to play a key game for a long absent championship and the academic team schedule to compete in a championship of their own.

This also upset drama queen, Sharpay Evans, and her brother, Ryan Evans, when they hear that Troy and Gabriella where scheduled for a call back challenging them for the leads in the school musical.

All is stated well in the song “Stick to the Status Quo.” All three groups, the jocks, the brainy group and the drama queen team try to throw a wrench in Troy and Gabriella’s romance and audition. The call back is scheduled at the same time the basketball team and the academic team are to compete. However, in the end, the jock and academic teams join together to make it possible for Troy and Gabriella to perform at the call back.

The cast did an excellent job with this production. (Troy) Lawrence Greenaway, (Gabriella) Ashley Fernandez, (Sharpay) Stephanie Padillo, (Ryan) Brandon Greenaway, drama teacher (Ms. Darbus) Emily Atlier, and news announcer (Jen Scott) Nicole Kikkert, did a first rate job in their roles. The rest of the cast also stood out.

Aside from the wildly entertaining performances, the singing, dancing, sets and entire production was first rate. This is a credit to the cast, crew and directors, Ms. Roberta Blender and Mr. Ted Colarusso. Story by Peter Gallo Jr. and photos by Angelo Urato. ###

Throughout his career, K-9 Laszlo confiscated approximately $700,000 in cash as well as several pounds of narcotics while working with the NJ State Police involving an incident with a tractor-trailer at the Capri Motor Lodge in Little Ferry.

Upon the State Police obtaining a warrant, a search by K-9 Laszlo unveiled $560,000 dollars in cash in a hidden compartment of the vehicle that was headed to California.

In February of 2017, Detective Callahan was notified by the United States Park Police. A K-9 Officer who trained with Detective Callahan had suddenly passed away.
