Moonachie held a Summer Party on Saturday, August 6, 2022. Plenty of food, water rides, ballooning and DJ music. See photos on page 15.

Refreshing

Splashing in the water. Playing on the beach. Leisurely strolls on the boardwalk. Long drives in the country. A walk in the woods. Exploring. Riding our bikes forever. Sitting under the shade tree for hours watching the clouds drift by. Picnics of hot dogs, cheeseburgers and corn-on-the-cob. Ice cold lemonade and ice cream. Staying up late, chasing fireflies, watching the moon slowly rising; gazing at the stars. Look -- a shooting star! To stop our hectic world and ponder childhood memories as though it were yesterday. Oh, those glorious, carefree days of endless summer enchantment.

Harvest Moon

The September full moon appears on Friday, September 9, 2022. It then reaches peak illumination at at 5:58 EST on Saturday the 10th, drifting below the horizon shortly thereafter.

Technically, the Harvest Moon is the Full Moon closest to the equinox around Thursday, September 22 at 9:04 EDT.

Note: On this equinox, the sun crosses above Earth's equator, moving from north to south. For everyone across the globe, days and nights are approximately equal in length. The name equinox comes from the Latin aequus (equal) and nox (night).

Most years it is in September, but around every three years, it is in October. The Harvest Moon is the only Full Moon name which is determined by the equinox rather than a month.

The Full Moon in the month of September in the Old Farmer's Almanac is called Harvest Moon, which corresponds with the Old English/Anglo-Saxon name, while other names are Corn Moon or Full Corn Moon or Barley Moon.

Usually the full moon rises an average of 50 minutes later each night, but for the few nights around the Harvest Moon, the Moon seems to rise at nearly the same time each night: just 25 to 30 minutes later across the U.S.

At the peak of harvest, farmers can work late into the night by the light of this moon. Corn, pumpkins, squash, beans and wild rice, the chief Indian staples, are now ready for gathering. The Native American Indians of the northern and eastern United States kept track of the seasons by giving a name to each recurring full moon. European settlers followed the custom. ###

Artful Thinking

By Artie Maglionico • Lodi Historian

Artful September 2022

Well folks, summer '22 has come to a screeching halt. The “screeching” is the agonizing sound of those youngsters who are realizing for the first time that school is back in session. And you thought it would never end. Ah the pain of it all.

When I was a kid the early signs of impending doom came when I found myself on a bus ride with my mother on our way to Passaic destination, Thom McAn and the dreaded “new shoes.”

As I tried them on the entire summer flashed before my fear stricken eyes. The end was near and my feet were the first to go. I was soon to follow! But wait folks, it wasn't over.

There was that surprise visit to Robert Hall's clothing store where the last vestiges of summer were giving way to the coming of autumn.

Next stop -- Columbus School. Can any of you out there in Artful Thinking land relate to this?

Summers were hard to let go of when I was growing up. The days were long and filled to overflowing with things to do.

Life for us was free and easy, not having a care in the world. We were allowed to be kids. We didn't have much to think about since all that mattered was what we were doing at that moment. Go out and play till your heart's content. Just make sure you were home for supper.

It's no wonder then why going back to school was such a shock to my system. Even with all of those early warning signs, finding myself in the classroom on that first day of school was traumatic, the remnants of which lasted until Christmas.

Come the Labor Day weekend, panic would begin to set in. When that Monday arrived I mourned the passing of time and all that it meant to me. I guess what saddened me the most was the passing of yet another summer of my youth.

I knew the day would come when I'd be running out of summers. There was so much I was leaving behind or rather it was leaving me!

The St. Joseph Church Labor Day weekend Feast helped cushion the blow of the back to school punch. I didn't appreciate the true essence of that end of summer gathering until I was out of grammar school.

The Feast was a rite of passage for those 13 year old kids who were about to enter those hallowed halls of Lodi High School. The pre-cursor to the end of summer fling was the St. Joseph marching band whose traditional Italian music echoed throughout the community stopping along the way for a donation and breakfast at the Vara residence.

The song "Mama," written by composer, Cesare Andrea Pixie, in 1940, was the band's signature number. Though the distant strains of the song brought a sentimental tear to those who listened, for me it meant the end of summer and the beginning of the school year which was equally as tear wrenching. The words that darted across my mind were destined to appear. If the band plays "Mama" can school be far behind?

As I stated earlier, the St. Joseph Feast was an event that saw a kid like me being exposed for the first time to life beyond Columbus School. In 1961, the start of my freshman year at LHS, not only did the entire community join in the festivities, also the kids from the other grammar schools; Wilson, Washington, Lincoln, Roosevelt and of course, Columbus. I knew a few of those kids from playing Little League football but overall I felt totally out of my element.

To make matters worse, in order to get to the sausage stand which till this day is run by the Palumbo Family, I had to pass by all of those upper classmen who were picking off wide eyed freshmen with a barrage of heckles and promises of a first day coating of lipstick.

The hazing never went beyond that. My cousin, Phil Maglionico, another incoming freshman, and myself managed to side step the hazing dilemma having our cousins Johnny Mags, a senior, and his kid brother, Anthony Mags, a sophomore, run interference for us as we made our way up and down the dimly lit, panic induced stairwells of Lodi High School.

I'm not sure if the Feast has that same “back to school” tradition today. The crowds are so much larger and take in people from various parts of the tri-state area.

The Feast itself has grown from a quaint “Lodi thing” to a major event the likes of which is perhaps among the largest of its kind in the area.

It is truly a carnival atmosphere with a busy mid-way, rides for all ages, including the Ferris Wheel, multiple food stands and souvenir concessions and of course, the Italian Sausage and Zeppoles. There is so much going on that it is easy to get lost in the crowd.

With that having been said, there is still a chance, albeit a lesser chance each year, that you're going to bump into someone from those days of yore. Schoolmates, kids from the old neighborhood, the hangouts and the affairs of the heart.

The Feast of St. Joseph was, and still is, though on a much larger scale, part and parcel of the Lodi mystique. A meeting place for generations each with memories of their own forever wanting to return.

I'll tell you what folks, I'll meet you at the Zeppole stand. In the meantime, have a happy and safe Labor Day weekend.

Special thanks go out to Library Director Karyn Gost and her staff for their continued support. Trust me folks, without their help and generosity there would be no column. Thanks also are in order for my cousin, Anthony, for showing me where commas and capital letters go. ###

Green Field Of Summer
by Arthur Maglionico

I've been watching the heavens as storm clouds pass by, here with my brothers in the field where they lie.

I gather the flowers that cover the grave, fall to my knees saying goodbye. The green field of summer has something to hide, it's the smile of my father on the ground where he died.

I came here to love him but he'll never know, for he's gone to a place where my words couldn't go.

I mourn for my mother who continues to cry, in the field of my brothers she came here to die.

I gather the teardrops that water the grave fall to my knees saying goodbye. In the green field of summer Saying goodbye Watching the heavens As angels pass by. I'll see them no more Till it's my turn to die In the green field of summer Saying goodbye. in the green fields of summer saying goodbye.

The Red Dolphins

A major milestone in the career of a United States Navy submariner is earning the Submarine Warfare Badge, commonly called the "Dolphins."

This badge consists of the bow and conning tower of a submarine flanked by two dolphins. This indicates that the wearer is a qualified submariner. Enlisted sailors' Dolphins are silver and officers' Dolphins are gold.

Both officers and enlisted personnel must meet a number of demanding requirements.

An enlisted sailor, first time reporting to a submarine, will be given an orientation and a qualification card. The sailor will also be assigned to a mentor (Sea Dad). In specific time limits, the sailor must be proficient in the various systems of the sub and must then pass a walk-through test.

The sailor then will go before a qualification board of the sub's captain, another officer and the Chief of the Boat (Senior CPO). Only successfully passing these requirements is the sailor awarded the Submarine Warfare Badge.

A new officer must meet the duty requirements of a number of officer positions, up to the position of Officer of the Deck (OOD). The OOD is in charge when the captain is not on the bridge. With the recommendation of the sub's captain, the sub's squadron commodore has the final approval.

If the Dolphins are either silver or gold, then why are there a group of submariners, both officers and enlisted, wearing Red Dolphins?

These sailors are the pre-commissioning crew of the Virginia class nuclear fast attack submarine, USS New Jersey, SSN 796. The New Jersey will be commissioned into the US Navy later this year.

The US Navy had designed a ship's crest. The outer rim lists the wars and shows the battle stars of the battleship, USS New Jersey, BB 62. The center shows both the battleship and the sub, USS New Jersey, SSN 796.

The motto of both the battleship and the sub is, in Latin, "Virtute Ignis pro Libertus – Firepower for Freedom!" The two stars denote that there were two Navy ships that were also named USS New Jersey before the sub. The two Dolphins are for the men and women that are crew members.

On the left side is an outline of the State of New Jersey enclosing George Washington crossing the Delaware River. At the request of the crew, horns, wings and a tail were added. This was an homage to the Jersey Devil. Not the hockey team! They call themselves "Devils of the Deep." Hence the Red Dolphins.

The Jersey Devil

The legend of the Jersey Devil has its origin about 1735, in Leeds Point, Galloway Township, Atlantic County, New Jersey. A Mrs. Jane Leeds was in a long and difficult labor with her 13th child. At some point she cursed the child. She then gave birth to the Jersey Devil.

The Jersey Devil then killed livestock, damaged crops and created general mayhem until the locals had an exorcism performed in 1740. The Jersey Devil appears to have taken a hiatus for one hundred years. He then returned in 1840 and resumed his evil ways.

In 1909, he expanded his reign of terror to include all of southern New Jersey and the area around Philadelphia, PA. Over a thousand people reported seeing him and at least three officers, from different police departments, claimed to have shot at it. The Philadelphia Zoo offered a $10,000 reward to anyone that could catch it.

One charlatan dressed up a kangaroo with wings and claws. He charged admission to see the "Jersey Devil." Various theories have been put forth to explain it. These range from an agitated Sand Hill Crane to a prehistoric flying Pterodactyl.

By an act of the New Jersey Legislature, in 1939, the Jersey Devil was made the official demon of New Jersey. This makes New Jersey the first and only state with an official demon. I guess other "Cryptids," like Sasquatch (Big Foot), Morthman, Skin-Walker, Snallygaster and Chupacabra are orphans, as no other state has claimed them.

To the USS New Jersey, SSN 796, and crew, we wish them and the ship a long and successful career and a safe passage home. Wear your Red Dolphins with pride! ###

Market Report: A Mixed Bag

As we head out of summer and some of the hottest weeks of the year, New Jersey's active housing market is apparently in the middle of a cool-down, and that could result in good news for folks who are interested in entering the market for a home.

According to the latest report from New Jersey Realtors, which covers home sales through July 2022, buyer activity is slowing, the result of a mixed bag of reasons.

In fact, you may be feeling a bit of whiplash hearing the varying takes on the housing market right now, home prices are still rising – but not as much!

Mortgage rates are generally up – but recently they've been held below 6%!

There are still bidding wars galore – but not everywhere! And, there's more inventory, so sellers just aren't seeing the deluge of wannabe buyers like they had witnessed just a few months ago.

A continued softening of the market should, it's expected, put downward pressure on home prices.

"We're now not seeing 20 to 25 offers on any given property, and we're now not seeing offer prices going $40,000 to $100,000 over the suggested list price in certain markets," said Robert White, president of New Jersey Realtors. "What we are seeing is five to 12 offers on any given property in certain markets, and $20,000 to $50,000 over that asking price."

Sellers are still in the driver's seat before and during a transaction, but they may not have as much power as they did one year or one season ago.

Compared to one year prior, according to the report, closed sales on single-family homes were down 8.7% in June 2022, and down 7.9% for all properties. The median sales price for single-family homes was $490,000, up 12.6% from 12 months prior.

In other words, home prices are still growing at a faster than normal pace, but price reductions among sellers are more common this year than last year, even as they lag pre-pandemic levels.

Danielle Hale, chief economist at Realtor.com reported: "Roughly 1 in 7 homes in June had a price reduction, up from roughly 1 in 13 in June 2021, but till below the 1 out of every 4 to 5 that was typical in 2017 through 2019."

The number of homes for sale today is significantly down compared to a year ago, but inventory has been growing recently on a month-to-month basis.

"We are going to continue seeing increasing inventory in all markets," White said.

Mortgage interest rates are more than 2.5 points higher today than a year ago. This would logically push more buyers out of the market, particularly those who are first-time buyers, but that hasn't been the case as of yet.

"They may not be pounding the pavement every day, but they're still on top of the inventory coming in, and if something catches them, they're on top of it," White said.

He also noted that July and August are typically slow months for the housing market during any year and that's been largely the case this season.

Rising rates equate to higher monthly payments and a larger payout overall for buyers, but a calmer market would mean their purchase price may be lower than what it would have been months ago.

Valedictorian Completes Eagle Scout Award Project

Samantha DeFrancesco, Valedictorian for the Immaculate Conception High School Class of 2022, in Lodi, is also a female member of Boy Scouts of America Troop 86 in Lyndhurst, NJ.

Hoping to achieve the prestigious Eagle Scout Award, she completed a project this summer constructing a gravel patio behind the ICHS building.

The project was completed in early July 2022 and hopefully, Samantha will receive her Eagle Scout Award in early December.

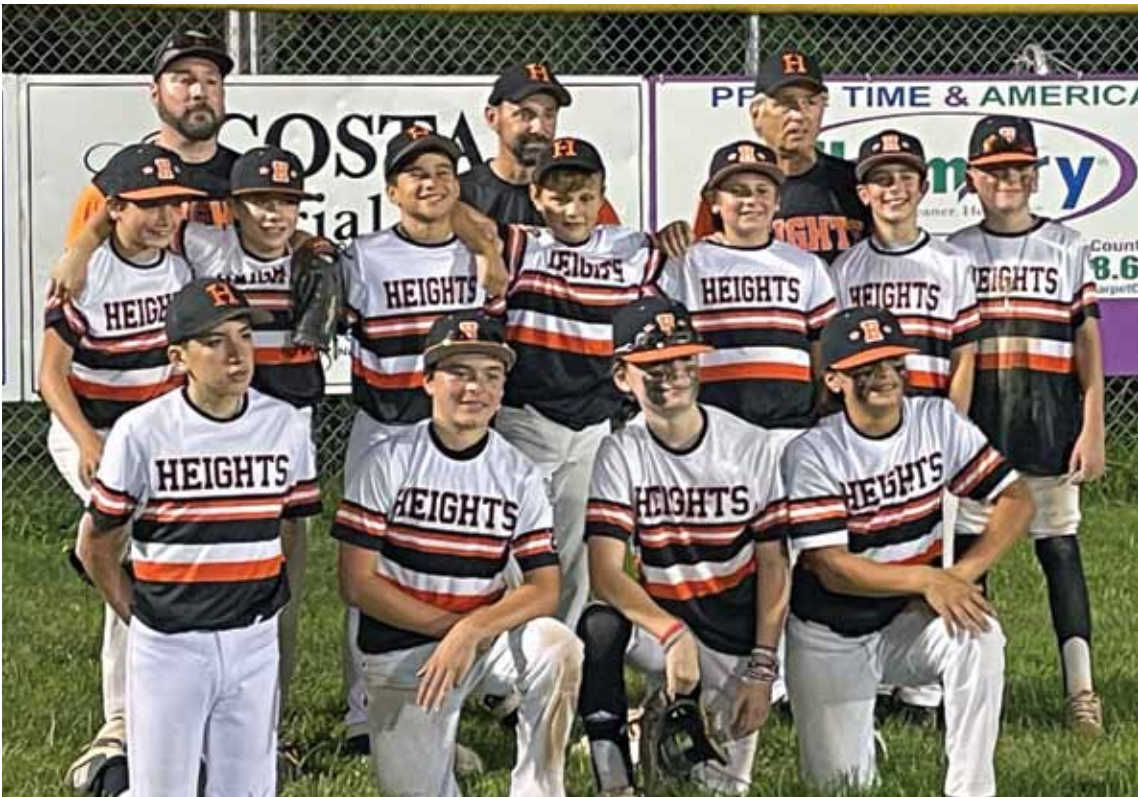

She will be attending Worcester Polytechnic Institute (WPI) in the fall and studying civil engineering.

The finished 20 ft. by 30

ft. gravel patio is a versatile space currently containing six of the school's pre-existing picnic tables that can be used effectively for outdoor classes and lunch seating, but the area can be decorated and used for nicer outdoor events as well.

It is a basic, defined space that can be adapted to the school's needs as necessary and will hopefully spark the imagination of a future Blue Wolf who can add onto it in years to come with her own vision.

"I hope that my project is the start of something good that will last in the Immaculate Conception High School community for years to come," said Samantha. Provided by Virginia Tomasiak, SM. ###

He served the East Rutherford Police Department since 1995, graduating from the Bergen County Police Academy the following June, when he joined its patrol division. He was promoted to patrol sergeant in January 2002, then detective sergeant in April 2007 and quickly to detective lieutenant nine months after that. He became an administrative lieutenant in October 2012

Moonachie Celebrates Family Day 2022

Corpus Christi Church Celebrates 125th Anniversary

Corpus Christi Church is celebrating their 125th Anniversary with a Parish Family Picnic on Saturday, September 10, from 1 to 8 p.m., on the parish grounds.

It will be a fun-filled day for all ages with outdoor games, food cooked by the Knights of Columbus, a DJ, evening live music, clowns, face painting by local Girl Scouts, a dunk tank, service dogs, tours of town emergency vehicles, a children's gift raffle, a Tricky Tray and Super 50/50 raffle.

The celebration continues on Sunday, September 11, when Cardinal Joseph Tobin will preside at the 12 o'clock Anniversary Mass. Refreshments will be served after Mass in the School Cafeteria and the winners of a Super 50/50 Raffle will be drawn.

As we celebrate this momentous Anniversary, it is fitting that we recognize other significant milestones in the history of the parish.

In 1897, 125 years ago, the few Catholic residents of Hasbrouck Heights had to attend Sunday Mass in either Lodi or Carlstadt, and early that year, those residents petitioned the Archdiocese for permission to build a church in town.

Construction began in the spring on a small tract of land, donated by Edward Anson, on the south side of Kipp Avenue just west of the Boulevard. The cornerstone of the Church bore the simple inscription of "A.D. 1897." Upon its completion, there were about a half-dozen Catholic families in town.

In 1914, Rev. William J. Carlin purchased part of the Dunston Estate which was located on the Boulevard and Kipp Avenue.

Late on a Saturday night after trolley wires were temporarily raised to accommodate the church steeple, the structure was moved from Kipp Avenue to its new and current location on the Boulevard.

Temporary steps were hastily built, and the faithful were able to attend Mass the next morning. According to a 1916 census, the parish count was 106 men, 140 women, and 91 children.

In September 1928, Rev. Andrew L. Clark opened the first Catholic School in Hasbrouck Heights which was staffed by the Sisters of Charity of Convent Station.

The school was housed in what is now the Early Learning Center on the Boulevard and in 1940 moved to a newly constructed building on Kipp Avenue.

In 1934, with the approval of Bishop Walsh and under the direction of Rev. Robert G. Fitzpatrick, the original church was enlarged and completely renovated to become the beautiful edifice where we worship today.

By 1955 there were 1,881 families in Corpus Christi. A building fund campaign was launched in 1958 to enlarge and renovate the existing Kipp Avenue school building to provide for a Chapel, gymnasium, and cafeteria and now includes a STREAM and Media Center. Corpus Christi School, Middle States Accredited, currently educates over 400 students. In later years, the Sisters of Charity moved from the convent and it was converted to the Parish Center.

In 2009, the Mother of Mercy Adoration Chapel was added to the Church under the leadership of Msgr. Lewis Papera. Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament is currently held from one to eleven p.m. every Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday.

The Corpus Christi family is excited and gratified to celebrate 125 years of growth and service. We thank the business community and individual sponsors for their support over the years and for helping us to make this event a resounding success.

Pray For Peace

Rosh Hashanah: Sunset Sept. 25 to nightfall Sept. 27, 2022 Yom Kippur: Sunset Oct. 4 to nightfall Oct. 5, 2022

Rosh Hashanah, literally “Head of the Year” in Hebrew, is the beginning of the Jewish new year. It is the first of the High Holidays or “Days of Awe,” ending 10 days later with Yom Kippur. This two-day festival marks the anniversary of humans' creation—and the special relationship between humans and God.

It begins with the sounding of the shofar, (a trumpet made from a ram's horn), proclaiming God as King of the Universe, just as a trumpet sounds at a king's coronation.

The sound of the shofar is also a call to repentance—to wake up and re-examine our commitment to God and to correct our ways. Thus begins the “Ten Days of Repentance” which ends with Yom Kippur.

Traditions include the sounding of the ram's horn (shofar) on both mornings.

Every evening, candles are lit. Candles are often a symbol of remembrance.

Spicy, sharp, or sour foods are avoided in favor of sweet delicacies, representing wishes for a sweet and pleasant year.

Yom Kippur means “Day of Atonement.” This is the holiest Jewish holiday of the year and ends the ten days of High Holidays or “Days of Awe,” which begin with Rosh Hashanah. Jews refrain from work. Adults fast from sundown the evening before Yom Kippur until nightfall the next day.

This day is about asking God to forgive sins, reflecting on past mistakes accepting repentance, and praying.

Fasting is a way to cleanse and purify the body and soul.

Many will wear all-white clothing to also symbolize purity.

On the day itself, there are many traditional prayers. One of the most important prayers describes the atonement ritual performed by high priests during ancient times.

Yom Kippur ends with a single shofar blast.

Traditions include: The day before Yom Kippur, a special meal is enjoyed ending with candle lighting. Many remember those who passed. Some visit cemeteries on this day before Yom Kippur. Another tradition leading up to Yom Kippur is to perform charitable acts. After Yom Kippur, a festive “break-the-fast” meal is served with lots of satisfying breakfast foods such as bagels and spreads, kugel, blintzes, and egg dishes. Source Almanac.com ###

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN

(Never known to fail) Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh, Star of the Sea, help me and show me, herein you are my mother, Oh, Holy Mary, Mother Queen of Heaven and Earth! I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are some that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein you are my mother.

Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3x). Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3x). Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light all roads so that I can attain my goal.

You who gave me the gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me, I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in eternal glory. thank you for your mercy toward me and mine.

The person must say this prayer three consecutive days. After three days, the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the favor is granted. N.M. ###

Hundreds Attend Family Friendly Community Event In Rutherford

The return of a summer heat wave in 2022 did not deter residents from heading to Lincoln Park on the evening of August 2nd for the return of Rutherford's National Night Out.

Organized by the Rutherford Police Department, National Night Out is a family-friendly community-building campaign that promotes police-community partnerships while allowing law enforcement to engage with the community members they serve every day in an informal setting.

This year's event, which ran from 6 to 8 p.m. in and around Lincoln Park, featured free fun foods, music, rides, and a variety of activities for all ages including raffles, giveaways, and a demonstration by The Dojo.

Throughout the evening, attendees had the opportunity to meet with members of the Borough's emergency services and several partnering law enforcement agencies, check out police, fire, ems, and tow vehicles, and get to know some of the borough's essential services members, their partners, and several community agencies.

Dozens of area organizations, and community groups were also on hand to speak with residents, answer questions, and distribute information and attendees also had the opportunity to check out the Bergen County Animal Shelter and Adoption vehicle on display next to our annual Hungry Humvee raffle known as Stuff the Hungry Humvee.

This year we collected much needed items to benefit the long-term and short-term animals of the shelter. Each generous donor had an opportunity to win a prize from either the NY Jets or NY Giants.

Congratulations, Renee A. and Dom F. And most importantly, thank you to everyone who donated early with the scheduled pick up run by Rutherford PBA Local 300, those who delivered donations to our agency lobby early, and those who donated at the event.

The numerous activities for children, included a castle bounce house, giant obstacle course, rock wall, strolling magician, balloon artist, photo booth and trackless train courtesy of the Borough of Rutherford. The Rutherford Police Department gave away 50 bicycle helmets. With the assistance of Erlea from EZ Ride, proper fitting was completed. The Rutherford Recreation Department sponsored free temporary tattoos and Magical Moments provided a Princess character for photo opportunities.

NNO is a great opportunity to bring our community together to not only meet and interact with our local law enforcement, but first responders, too.

The Rutherford Police Department would like to thank the following essential agencies for their participation: Rutherford Volunteer Ambulance Corps, New Jersey Transit Police Department, New Jersey State Police, United States Coast Guard, NY/NJ Port Authority Police Department, Bergen County Sheriff's Department, Bergen County Prosecutor's Office, Bergen County SWAT Team, Bergen County

OEM and EMS Training Center, Rutherford Volunteer Fire Department, DEA, and Bergen County Consumer Affairs.

"On behalf of the Rutherford Police Department, I would like to express my profound gratitude to Mayor Frank Nunziato and the Council Members for supporting National Night Out and a huge thank you to everyone who contributed to this year's event.

The support we received from the Rutherford Department of Public Works, LOL-Yards.com, 40+ organizations, and individuals in our community is truly what made this event a huge success. I look forward to working with everyone again in 2023!" said Sergeant Julie Ann Zeigler. Provided by Rutherford Police Department. ###
